

DEFINITION

Certified Rehabilitation Registered Nurse (CRRN) certification is a generalist certification and is appropriate for professional rehabilitation Nurses. The RNCB's mission is to promote excellence in care by validating qualifications and specialized knowledge in rehabilitation nursing.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVE

Upon completion, participants will be able to:

- Assess patients with a rehabilitation diagnosis & identify interventions that meet individual needs.
- Evaluate and apply rehabilitation principles in a variety of clinical situations.
- Explain the impact of rehabilitation services including direct care delivery & case management.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Rehabilitation Nurses as well as nurses from other fields will benefit from this intensive two-day course. Allied health care professionals dealing with rehabilitation patients will also benefit from this program.
